The Language of SHAKESPEARE II

After reading over the handouts, try your hand at using Shakespeare's language. In the first section, translate the phrase from his time into one we would say today. In the second section, try to translate the contemporary words into ones The Bard would use.

SHAKESPEAREAN PHRASE	WE WOULD SAY TODAY
Adieu. I shalt return on the morrow.	Goodbye. I'll be back tomorrow.
Hark! I needeth thy counsel.	Listen! I need your help.
Giveth Shakespeare a chance. Thou might e;en liketh 't.	Give Shakespeare a chance. You might even like it.
The fool doth think he is wise. (As You Like It)	The fool thinks he's wise/smart.
Tempt not a desperate man. (Romeo and Juliet)	Don't tempt a desperate man.
The apparel oft proclaims the man. (Hamlet)	The clothes make the man.
Thine idea wast a good one.	Your idea was a good one.
'Tis he that is the problem. He hast no patience.	It's he that is the problem. He has no patience.
I have nought to give thee	I have nothing to give you.
My phone hath broken. What shalt I doeth?	My phone is broken! What will I do?

The Language of SHAKESPEARE II

Below, you will find some phrases that you may be familiar with. Use the computer at this station to find out which play they are from. You will need to go to this site: http://www.phrases.org.uk/meanings/phrases-sayings-shakespeare.html

Phrase	Play
A foregone conclusion	Othello
Meaning: An inevitable conclusion or one reached without evidence
A rose by any other name would smell as sweet	Romeo & Juliet
Meaning: It's what's on the inside that counts, not th	e name.
All that glisters is not gold	The Merchant of Venice
Meaning: All that glitters is not gold – somet outside may not be really valuable	hing that looks great on the
Be all and end all	Macbeth
Meaning: The last word; the pinnacle
Heart's Content	Henry VI, part II & Merchant
Meaning: to one's complete satisfaction	•
Fair play	The Tempest
Meaning: Fair for everyone	•
Fight fire with fire	King John
Meaning: respond to an attack in a similar m attacker	anner as what is used by your